

FoHB Young Leaders Award
Standing out from the crowd

'I have learned a lot of new skills but in particular I now understand how important good communications are, especially when getting a team to function properly.'

'As a Mentor, I have certainly grown in confidence. During the Young Leaders course last year I felt I was not confident enough to lead a group by myself but this year I think I have shown that I am capable of doing that. In the future I would like to continue improving my leadership skills and push myself beyond my comfort zone.'

The Friends of High Borrans have developed this Award, to help young people in North Tyneside develop the skills and attributes that help them stand out when applying for further or higher education, training and employment. From across the Secondary Schools of North Tyneside, Year 10 students are invited to commit themselves to the Award in March continue through to its completion in the autumn. This is just the beginning of the Award opportunities, which include Mentor, Ambassador and Leader roles over a period of 4 years. The Award is endorsed by Professor Roy Sandbach, a world renowned innovation and business leader based in North Tyneside and currently at Cranfield and Newcastle Universities.
